

The Most Important Place on Earth

“Imagine what could happen—what a difference could be made in our world—if Christian homes were to be miniature outposts of the kingdom of God on earth.” Imagine, Nancy DeMoss Wolgemuth continues, “if our families would adorn the gospel of Christ and His Word, making it believable.”¹

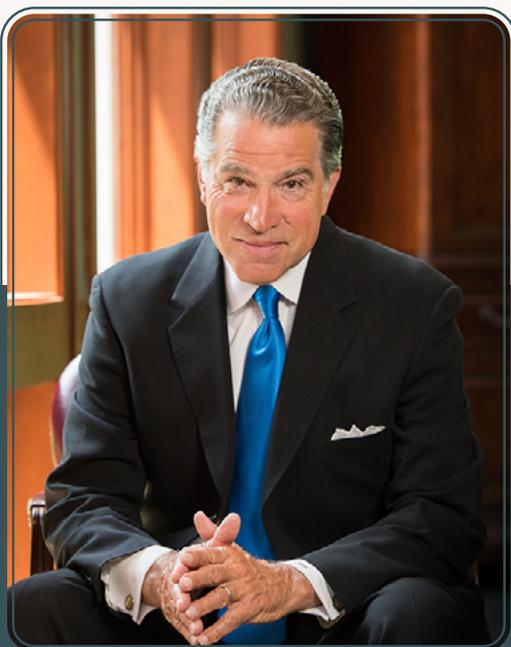

Nancy included this challenge in the foreword to Robert Wolgemuth’s book The Most Important Place on Earth. In the pages that followed, Robert unpacked what it looks like for the gospel to be lived out within the walls of a home. “A Christian home,” Robert wrote, “is a place where the door is open to guests.”²

Looking back on his parents’ household, he remembered,

Our mother fed more guests than some of the diners in our town. She scoured the newspaper for new recipes she could make on a budget. Occasionally, she had to let her family know that there wasn’t enough of a certain entrée, so she’d whisper to one of us, “FHB on the green beans.” We’d quietly pass her message on to our siblings, knowing that meant “Family hold back.” Just take a couple of beans so the guests could have plenty. The important thing was that the abundance of our dinner table made people feel welcome in our home.

Jesus said it best: “It is more blessed to give than to receive” (Acts 20:35). My dad and mother would have amended this slightly: “It’s more fun to give than to have.”³

That kind of generosity flows from homes built on the Word of God. As Christians, we have the opportunity to offer something profoundly countercultural: lives rooted in truth, tables marked by grace, and homes that invite others inside to experience the love of Christ made visible in everyday life.

¹ Robert Wolgemuth, The Most Important Place on Earth: What a Christian Home Looks Like and How to Build One (Nashville, TN: Thomas Nelson, 2016), xi.

² Wolgemuth, The Most Important Place on Earth, 95.

³ Wolgemuth, The Most Important Place on Earth, 95.

On January 10, 2026, Robert Wolgemuth, beloved dear husband to Nancy DeMoss Wolgemuth, departed from his earthly body and this broken world and entered into the glory of eternity with Christ. We praise God for this precious man, who encouraged us to view our homes as “the most important place on earth” and to fill them with “repentance and forgiveness, gratitude, tenderness, and generosity. Amazing grace.” To learn more about Robert’s life and legacy, visit ReviveOurHearts.com/Robert.

Nancy DeMoss Wolgemuth Featured at NRB Convention

Nancy addressed the closing gala of the National Religious Broadcasters (NRB) Convention—the world’s largest yearly gathering of Christian communicators—in Nashville on February 20. That evening, she also received the NRB Chairman’s Award, a prestigious honor presented to individuals or organizations that exhibit exceptional commitment to the gospel and outstanding service within the Christian media industry. The award recognizes long-term dedication, integrity, and significant impact on Christian communicators.

Held annually, NRB brings together thousands of broadcasters, filmmakers, podcasters, pastors, and digital leaders to advance faith-based media.

For Nancy, this honor came at a significant moment, as her Wonder of the Word teaching series enters its final stages of preparation for a 2027 launch. This season also marks the twenty-fifth anniversary of Revive Our Hearts. While Nancy has not yet stepped back into a regular ministry schedule following Robert’s Homegoing, she was grateful for the opportunity to share a message that has become even dearer to her heart in these last weeks—the wonder and beauty of God’s precious Word.

Since the ministry’s launch in 2001, when it succeeded Elisabeth Elliot’s radio program Gateway to Joy, broadcasting has been a central feature of the Revive Our Hearts outreach. Today, Revive Our Hearts programs air on more than one thousand radio outlets and reach millions of listeners worldwide through digital platforms.

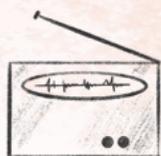

Strong Signals for Christ

Each year, 141 million Americans engage with Christian media—more than those who attend church annually (Barna Group).

Most listeners (85 percent) say Christian radio helps them grow spiritually, and many (84 percent) use it for daily worship (Finney Media).

One-third of U.S. adults—about 85 million people—listen to Christian radio (NRB/Barna).

Revive Our Hearts airs daily on more than 1,100 stations and reaches millions more through digital downloads—serving women in ten languages across more than fifty countries with life-changing biblical truth.

Finding Light in the Midst of Darkness

REVIVE OUR HEARTS IS REACHING WOMEN IN RUSSIA AND UKRAINE

February 24 marked the fourth anniversary of Russia's large-scale invasion of Ukraine. For countless women and families in both countries, fear, loss, and uncertainty have become constant companions. In the midst of such hardship, Revive Our Hearts is sharing the gospel of Christ through a partnership with Far East Broadcasting.

At this memorial in Kyiv, Ukraine, each flag represents a soldier killed during the ongoing war.

Our Hearts is sharing the gospel of Christ through a partnership with Far East Broadcasting.

Through short, thought-provoking videos and translated Revive Our Hearts programs, women are hearing words of hope and being connected to Christ and to local churches.

"My fear was paralyzing me," one woman from Ukraine shared. "You have been such a support. I'm beginning to understand how to find peace as I learn more about the love of God."

Even in these dark times, Revive Our Hearts is pointing women to the light and hope that only Christ can give.

Celebrating Women's Ministry Essentials

ONLINE COURSE HELPS LEADERS FLOURISH

Congratulations to the first graduating class of our Women's Ministry Essentials course on March 3! During this seven-week program, leaders of various ministry backgrounds learned from trusted teachers including Mary Kassian, Dannah Gresh, Susan Hunt, Kelly Needham, and Pastor Joselo Mercado.

Through weekly teaching and interactive cohorts, the 121 participants were equipped with a scriptural framework as they engaged topics such as "Word-Centered Women's Ministry," "True Womanhood: God's Divine Design," and "Woman to Woman Discipleship." We praise God for each of these leaders and look forward to seeing how the Lord uses them to establish ministries that flourish for Christ's glory.

Support for Your Legacy Planning

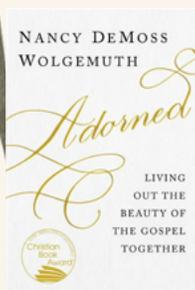

As part of our care for those who walk alongside Revive Our Hearts, we've partnered with PhilanthroCorp to offer help with legacy and estate planning. Their team is available to guide you through a simple process to create wills and estate documents that reflect your values and the legacy you hope to leave. This support is provided at no cost to you.

If you'd like to talk or pray through how your legacy might reflect your giving goals and support ministries like Revive Our Hearts, contact Brent at Bhalvorsen@ReviveOurHearts.com.

Spring Sale

MARK YOUR CALENDAR!
March 26–April 30

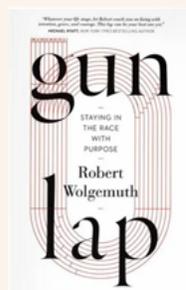

For a limited time, enjoy special savings on trusted resources designed to help you grow deeper in God's Word and encourage your walk with Christ.

Adorned

Surrender

Gun Lap

The Right Kind of Strong

SAVE THE DATE—AND PLAN TO VISIT
ReviveOurHearts.com/store

Kindness That Makes Jesus Visible

Your words, tone, and spirit shape the atmosphere around you. A Deeper Kind of Kindness by Nancy DeMoss Wolgemuth invites you to let the gospel transform the way you relate to others, making kindness an essential part of your witness for Christ.

REQUEST YOUR COPY OF
A Deeper Kind of Kindness when you visit
ReviveOurHearts.com/Kindness26.

